NON-EXPEDITED COURSE PROPOSALS

Courses Numbered 000 – 599

Chemistry

FROM: CHM 372 – ~~Forensic Analytical Chemistry~~. (3) II, S. ~~Quantitative chemical analysis and its application to the area of forensic (crime scene) analysis will be covered. The course will focus on sample collection, chemical equilibria, titrations, gravimetry, spectrophotometry, electrochemistry, chromatography and data analysis and the specific applications of these techniques for forensics.~~
PR: ~~CHM 230 or equivalent.~~

TO: CHM 372 – Forensic Chemistry and Criminalistics. (3) II, S. Introduction of forensic science and chemistry. Collecting physical evidence at a crime scene and examining it in the laboratory. Soils, glass, hair, fibers, drugs, explosives, poisons, castings, inks, and arson and rape situations are investigated. PR.: CHM 110.

RATIONALE: The course focus is being broadened in order to increase the appeal and enrollment in the course. The changes involve removing the Chem. I and II prerequisites and adding some basic chemical principles into the course and removing more advanced analytical topics. This restructured course should have broader appeal to students interested in CSI and forensic type studies including those interested in criminal justice and pre-law. It will essentially reinstate the popular CHM 195 class that was discontinued several years ago after the professor who taught it retired.

EFFECTIVE DATE: Spring 2011

Communication Studies, Theatre, and Dance

ADD: COMM 499 – Honors Project. (3) I, II, S. Open only to Arts & Sciences students who are active members of the University Honors Program.

RATIONALE: Currently, the Department does not have a course listing for honors students to take as their Honors Project in Communication Studies. Such a course is listed in most departments (typically as Senior Honors Thesis – but this is being changed to Honors Project) and serves as a “course” which is actually independent study. Students in the University Honors Program are required to do an Honors Project their junior/senior year and this course number allows them to receive credit.

EFFECTIVE DATE: Spring 2011

ADD: THTRE 499 - Honors Project. (3) I, II, S. Open only to Arts & Sciences students who are active members of the University Honors Program.

English

ADD: ♦ENGL 280 – Studies in World Literature and Culture. (3) I, II, S. Investigation of a particular theme or genre in World literature or culture. Taught in English. Topics vary.

RATIONALE: The English Department proposes an introductory course that would study national literatures other than American or British. This course, taught in English and with books written in English or translated, will complement the upper-level ENGL 580 World Literature course, and lend itself to the First Year Seminar.

We plan to cross-list this course with Modern Languages. Their course is MLANG 280.

IMPACT: Modern Languages

EFFECTIVE DATE: Spring 2011

Modern Languages

ADD: HINDI 101 – Hindi I. (4) I. Introduction to the structure of modern Hindi. Listening, speaking, reading, and writing.

RATIONALE: To create eventually a Hindi I-IV sequence in support of a DOE South Asian Studies grant that requires the teaching of Hindi.

IMPACT: None

EFFECTIVE DATE: Spring 2011

ADD: HINDI 102 – Hindi II. (4) I. Continuation of Hindi I, completion of the basic structural and linguistic principles of Hindi.

RATIONALE: To create eventually a Hindi I-IV sequence in support of a DOE South Asian Studies grant that requires the teaching of Hindi.

IMPACT: None

EFFECTIVE DATE: Spring 2011

ADD: ITAL 105 – Italian for Travelers. (3) I. A function course designed to prepare students for everyday situations on a visit to Italy.

RATIONALE: This course has been offered for years under the DAS 199 rubric. It is high time we make it a course in Modern Languages.

IMPACT: None.

EFFECTIVE DATE: Spring 2011

ADD: JAPAN 299 – Special Studies in Japanese. (1-8) I, II, S. Variable credit. Pr.: Permission of the instructor.

RATIONALE: Similar to other courses in this department and others, this course would be used as a means of providing appropriate level K-State credit for students who have either taken Japanese courses abroad or at another American university. It could also be used as a regular “special Problems” class for students who wish to continue their study of Japanese when we do not offer lower-level class appropriate for them.

Music

ADD: ♦MUSIC 171 – Inventing the Future: Underground Rock: 1968-1993. (3) I, II, S. An introduction to the underground rock music, musicians, and scenes from the 1960’s to the 1990’s that have proven most influential on modern popular music and culture.

RATIONALE: This course would serve as an ideal companion to the new Music 170 course, History of Rock-n-Roll. The content of this course explores the less accessible, non-mainstream composers and musicians who have proven to be among the most influential, if not popular or commercially successful of the genre. The course also has ethno-musicological significance as it explores the social, community contexts of many of the movements and scenes studied, which were often as important to the musicians and fans as the music itself.

EFFECTIVE DATE: Spring 2011

ADD: MUSIC 296 – Jazz Theory I. (1) I. Basic fundamentals of jazz theory to develop critical thinking and performing skills. Pr.: Music 230 (C or better).

RATIONALE: Beginning jazz students need an introductory theory course in order to perform adequately in the proceeding areas of jazz improvisation.

IMPACT: None

EFFECTIVE DATE: Spring 2011

ADD: MUSIC 297 – Jazz Theory II. (1) II. Intermediate level fundamentals of jazz theory to develop critical thinking and performing skills. Pr.: MUSIC 296, 298.

RATIONALE: Intermediate (second year) jazz students need a mid-level theory course in order to perform adequately in the proceeding areas of jazz improvisation.

IMPACT: None

EFFECTIVE DATE: Spring 2011

ADD: MUSIC 373 – Jazz Guitar Seminar. (1) I, II. Listening to jazz guitar literature, performing, and offering meaningful critique. Pr.: Audition. CoR: Music 296, MUSIC 298

RATIONALE: This course is designed to allow students to listen to and engage in meaningful dialogue regarding all subjects pertaining to jazz guitar, while interacting with each other and providing critique on performances and presentations.

NON-EXPEDITED COURSE PROPOSALS

Courses Numbered 600-999

Music

ADD: MUSIC 636 – Advanced Woodwind Techniques. (2) S. Advanced techniques in the teaching of all woodwind instruments for music teachers.

RATIONALE: This course is an elective for the summer master of music program providing advanced pedagogical training in the teaching of woodwind instruments.

EFFECTIVE DATE: Summer 2011

ADD: MUSIC 637 – Advanced Brass Techniques. (2) S. Advanced techniques in the teaching of all brass instruments for music teachers.

RATIONALE: This course is an elective for the summer master of music program providing advanced pedagogical training in the teaching of woodwind instruments.

EFFECTIVE DATE: Summer 2011

Political Science

FROM: POLSC 742 – International Conflict. (3) ~~H. The nature of political conflicts in the world and the “types” of such conflicts. Emphasis is on determining the “causes” of the various conflict types as well as providing the student with a better understanding of the conflict process from political dispute through the escalation stages to war.~~ Pr: POLSC 333.

TO: POLSC 642 – International Conflict. (3) I, II, S. Examines the nature of international political conflicts and the types of such conflicts. Pr: POLSC 333.

RATIONALE: The Department believes that this course would be better suited as a 600 level course. We now have a series of courses at the 800 level in the Security Studies graduate program that cover similar material as the presently construed POLSC 742, especially POLSC 813 International Security. We believe that having these two courses – International Conflict and International Security – at roughly the same level is redundant and we have found that offering both courses at this level is beyond student demand. It would be more beneficial to the department to move International Conflict to the 600 level thereby providing our majors with an additional 600 offering in the International Relations subfield. Since many of our undergraduate majors seem to be wary of 700 level courses, moving International Conflict to the 600 level should also increase enrollment in the class. Also, we envision offering the course on a rotating basis in both the spring and the fall as opposed to offering it only in the spring as we do now. We may also offer the course in the summer.

IMPACT: Limited, if any. Few non-majors currently take POLSC 742.

EFFECTIVE DATE: Spring 2011

Women's Studies

ADD: WOMST 799 – Independent study for graduate students or advanced undergraduate students. Topics vary. (1-3) I, II, S. Independent study in problems, issues, topics in Women's Studies.

RATIONALE: Provides a named place in the curriculum for graduate student independent study, parallel to offerings in other departments. In the past, Women's Studies was used WOMST 700 ("Advanced Topics") to accommodate graduate-level or advanced undergraduate independent study. Creating WOMST 799 will lessen confusion and increase accuracy in the catalog, and will correctly indicate the significance of this course in a student's program of study.

- AERO 411 – Aerospace Studies/ Civil Military Relationships. Credits: (3) (Spring)
- AERO 499 – Optional independent study program. Credits: (1)

*Culminating in a minor

* Each course offers lessons in Leadership, Followership and Officership. This is a progressive program in which each class is needed for the next. The intended goal from the AFROTC program is to commission students into the Air Force. All courses are required to earn their 2d Lieutenant commission as an Air Force officer through the ROTC program. Cadets complete rigorous academic and physical evaluations in order to meet established Air Force Officer requirements.

RATIONALE: Adding an Aerospace Studies Minor adds credibility to the department’s current curriculum and will help encourage more students to come join Air Force ROTC at Kansas State University.

RATIONALE: Instead of requiring one specified research seminar, GEOG 830, Rural Geography, the Department wants to require any two research seminars at eh 800- or 900-level in geography. The Department also wished to reduce its credit hour requirement for 800-level and above courses to 15 hours form 18 hours, to match the Graduate School’s PhD requirement. This will not increase the total number of hours of coursework for the PhD, but will better reflect the breadth and diversity of the research interests held by the faculty and doctoral students.
