RATIONALE: Students undertaking undergraduate research in mathematics sign up for credit in MATH 499. Some students, however, do not wish to receive credit because it increases their tuition. In order to enable these students to receive recognition of their efforts on their transcripts and to encourage more students to pursue undergraduate research, we would like to allow students to take MATH 499 for 0 credits. It is already a variable credit course so students who do want credit will still have that option.

Modern Languages

Modern Languages (B.A.)

FROM:

For details regarding the French and German majors, please visit the Modern Languages webpage.
 The Spanish major consists of 31 hours of classes at and above the 300-level as indicated in the list below. With the exception of transfer credit or credit by examination that is approved by the department, students who major in Spanish must either (a) receive a grade of C or higher in all courses counted toward the major or (b) have a GPA of at least 2.50 in all courses counted toward the major. Note: Literature courses in translation may not be applied toward the major. Two non-transfer courses are required at the 700-level.
 The Department of Modern Languages strives to provide the best possible learning environment for its students, and for this reason we take very seriously the placement of students in courses that match their abilities. Each class in the sequence of our courses is designed so that students advance in reading, listening, writing, speaking, and cultural proficiency. In order to best serve each individual, the Department reserves the right to remove students from the rosters of classes that do not correspond to their proficiency levels. Students who have acquired advanced language skills abroad or at home must consult with Modern Languages staff in order to determine their appropriate entry point in our language sequence. Students who begin their coursework at advanced levels may qualify for retroactive credit in as many as four courses at the basic level (I-IV). For details, please see the Department of Modern Languages web page.

The mission of the Graduate Certificate in Public Administration is to be a flexible professional certificate program for those who desire to pursue education in principles of public management to advance in their administrative careers in the public sector and not-for-profit sector. Certificate holders will be trained for entry level management positions with government agencies at the federal, state, or local level, and with regional or sub-state organizations. Course work will be offered via various distance learning technologies so that students from all over will be able to obtain this certificate.

Students with a Graduate Certificate in Public Administration will understand the general principles of public administration, including but not limited to public sector budgeting, personnel, public organization theory, and research methods. Students will also have the option of specializing in one of the following two areas in public management: administrative law or not-for-profit management. The overall educational goal is to provide professional training for a wide range of administrative venues, while providing students the flexibility to specialize in an area of interest.
