History

FROM: HIST 589 – Lost Kansas Communities. (3) ~~I, II~~. Combined lecture-field research course in the history of vanished Kansas towns. Overview of settlement, persistence, and decline. Students also research a lost community of their choosing. Note: Open to all majors with no prerequisites, sophomore standing require. Pr.: ~~none~~. K-State 8: ~~Social Sciences~~.

TO: HIST 589 – Lost Kansas Communities. (3) I, II, S. Combined lecture-field research course in the history of vanished Kansas towns. Overview of settlement, persistence, and decline. Students also research a lost community of their choosing. Note: Open to all majors with no prerequisites, sophomore standing require. Pr.: Sophomore standing. K-State 8: Human Diversity within the US; Historical Perspectives.

K-STATE 8: The material is historical in nature, and examines diverse communities.

RATIONALE: This course has been offered regularly since 2006; the department would like to integrate it into its regular catalog offerings, based both on its contribution to the K-State 2025 goal of enhancing undergraduate research opportunities, and its centrality to the work of the Chapman Center. The class is a 500 level American History course that will satisfy that requirement for the major. The College of Education accepts this class to fulfill its Kansas history course requirement. It is also a guided research course providing able students with a forum for their work: publication in a digital archive. Course was approved and now we are changing the K-State 8 tags and the semesters offered.

IMPACT: No impact – this course has been offered for many years under a general “topics” number and is now being made into a regular offering.

EFFECTIVE DATE: Fall 2016

Sociology, Anthropology, and Social Work

FROM: ANTH 365 – Exploring Kansas Archaeology. (3) II. Exploration of the archaeological record of past Native peoples of Kansas and the Central Plains and their diverse lifeways. Pr.: None. K-State 8: Historical Perspectives.

TO: ANTH 365 – Exploring Kansas Archaeology. (3) II. Exploration of the archaeological record of past Native peoples of Kansas and the Central Plains and their diverse lifeways. Pr.: None. K-State 8: Historical Perspectives; Human Diversity within the US.

K-STATE 8 RATIONALE: This course focuses on archaeology as an historical and cultural (social) science that provides an historical perspective of the many different (diverse) early Native cultures of the region now encompassed by Kansas. Students gain an understanding of how archaeological evidence is analyzed for insight into past human societies. This knowledge of past Native societies sets the context for later developments in the history and present social setting of the region. Cultural diversity and culture change are emphasized. Through the examination of the various societies that developed over 14,000 years of Kansas prehistory and early history, students will be able to discuss cultural diversity and how it developed among the Native peoples in this region. This will provide a foundation for understanding the situation of modern Native American societies as non-majority groups and their diversity.

RATIONALE: Add K-State 8 Human Diversity within the US because this course provides understanding of the time depth and culture history of Native American societies in this region.

Women's Studies

ADD: WOMST 350 – Gender in American Film. (3) I. This course examines depictions of gender, race/ethnicity, class, and sexuality in American film. It focuses on the way in which images in mainstream Hollywood films reinforce, normalize and/or question power, power relations, and stereotypes. This is a lecture and recitation course. Pr.: None. K-State 8: Aesthetic Interpretation; Human Diversity within the US.

K-STATE 8 RATIONALE: This course will have students analyze films as texts to understand the different gendered, racialized, classes, and heteronormative ways that American films have reinforced and contested dominant power. The students will develop critical thinking skills in exploring the meanings of artistic works and performances as artistic forms that reproduce and/or resist cultural expectations along gender, race, class and sexuality lines. This course explores the different presentations of cultures and subcultures of the US including ethnic, race, sexualities, and class subcultures. Throughout the course, students will engage with issues of identity, dominations, subordinations, oppressions, and prejudices as expresses in mainstream Hollywood films.

RATIONALE: As a popular culture course focusing on mainstream Hollywood films, this course provides students with key media literacy skills to critically question representations, stereotypes, and expectations of major identity markers in US culture like gender, race, class, and sexuality. As a newly developed online course, this class will allow Women's Studies to further develop its online presence and connect to students both on and off campus.

Psychological Sciences

ADD: PSYCH 961 – Multivariate Analyses of Behavioral Data. (3) I. Methods of working with behavioral sciences multivariate data, including screen data for compliance with assumption and addressing violations of assumptions. Coverage of common multivariate analyses used, with specific application to behavioral research content and topics. Pr.: PSYCH 805 or consent of instructor.

RATIONALE: This is a graduate seminar which has been taught under the general "Seminar in Psychological Measurement" (PSYCH 956) title. As this course is a core option within the graduate curriculum for this department, making it a distinct course with a set number of credit hours will clarify its statue.

RATIONALE: Now that students have started signing up and completing the Minor in Art, we realize that there are some minor changes that will allow students from Architecture and Interior Design to complete the program more efficiently. We are allowing their Foundation class to count for our Foundations requirement in the Art Minor and both departments have been contacted and are thrilled with these new changes. We are also allowing more Art History classes to be part of the Minor as we recognize not everyone wants to do primarily Studio Art courses.

IMPACT: November 10, 2015 emails - Lisa Last; Architecture, approves. Hannah Schuh for Interior Design replied that their course ID 225 would be a great fit for the foundational courses.

RATIONALE: These courses were approved by the Women’s Studies faculty to count toward the graduate certificate in Women’s Studies.

IMPACT: DED 820 was submitted for approval for the graduate certificate in Women's Studies by the Assoc. Dean for Research and Graduate Study in the College of Education, Dr. Linda Thurston. She clearly supports it. Her email states that "Our SLOs align well with the SLOs of the Women's Studies graduate certificate. The competencies of understanding, examining and communicating positionality relate to the first and last WS SLOs. Positionality examines one position in a specific context related to gender, sexuality race, ethnicity, ability status, and positions of privilege. The second and third WS SLOs are reflected in all the course SLOs, but especially 3 and 5. This course embodies the multidisciplinary nature of social justice education and demonstrates the interdisciplinarity that also characterizes Women's Studies".
